Children are not allowed in the examination room or unsupervised in the waiting room. The Toronto Centre for Medical Imaging does not provide childcare services while you are having your test.

We truly appreciate that you have chosen The Toronto Centre for Medical Imaging for your imaging studies today. Unfortunately, as a medical imaging facility, we do not have the expertise to look after your child while you are having your study. Having your child in the X-Ray or Mammogram room while you are having your test is not an option as it would expose the child to unnecessary radiation, contrary to the Healing Arts and Radiation Protection Act of the Province of Ontario.

Your ultrasound examination requires a lot of concentration by the technologist and having a child in the room is extremely disruptive and could result in an unsatisfactory examination. This would be contrary to our mandate under the Regulations of the Independent Health Facilities Act.

We are committed to giving ALL of our patients a good experience while they are here, ensure that they are well taken care of, have the highest quality of medical imaging possible and to receive our full attention while under our care. This is extremely difficult to accomplish when parents bring their young children without their own adult supervision.

If a patient arrives for his/her appointment with a child that requires adult supervision, we will have to reschedule the appointment.

Thank you for your understanding.
